

GENERAL McQUIGG COMING TO SPEAK AT LEGION FETE

World War Officer To Be Guest At Banquet On Thursday, April 5.

PUBLIC INVITED
TO HEAR ADDRESS

Cleveland Man Will Give Views On France In Ruhr Valley.

Charles H. Carey post No. 56, American Legion, has set Thursday, April 5, as the date of its April banquet to be held in the new rooms in the Speidel block, Main st., above the city market. This banquet is to be open to the public and any one wishing to attend can do so by turning their names in to the legion headquarters before that date.

A few weeks ago a delegation of 40-5 of the Legion post went to East Liverpool to hear Brig. Gen. John R. McQuigg, of Cleveland speak to the ex-service men at the home of the Legion in that city. They were so well impressed by his talk that they decided to tell the local Legion post of it. At the next regular meeting they reported and the members expressed a desire to have him here to talk to the Salem post and the men of Salem who wish to hear a man of his calibre. So they got in touch with him and he expressed his willingness to come here April 5.

Gen. McQuigg is a veteran of the World war, having served with the 112th Engineers, a unit of the 37th division, both in this country and in France and Germany as colonel, commanding. He is a member of the American Legion and is a deciding factor in the Cuyahoga county council. He is a past commander of the Department of Ohio and has served as an executive officer of the national Legion.

Gen. McQuigg is a very forceful speaker and he has a message to bring to Salemites that he covers very thoroughly and enthusiastically. His subject for that evening is "France in the Ruhr Valley." He has been there and knows the conditions and can give them to the public in a very interesting manner.

The banquet will be served by the women of the American Legion Auxiliary. There will be a fine program in connection that will bring back the old days when the boys did bunk fatigue between squads east and double time.

Russell Divorce Case Stirs London

Mr. & Mrs. John Hugo Russell and Son.

British society is stirred to the depths by the trial of the sensational divorce suit which the Hon. John Hugo Russell, son and heir of Lord Amphil, former viceroy of India, is bringing against his beautiful wife, denying the paternity of her child. A former suit brought a verdict for Mrs. Russell, from which the husband appealed.

Sane Fourth Bill Gets Approval Of Ohio Committee

Columbus, March 15.—In spite of vigorous efforts of manufacturers of fireworks, the Bender sane Fourth bill was recommended for passage by the senate committee on manufacturing today. A similar bill was killed in the house this session.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment, to sell "or exhibit for sale any fire-cracker, squib, roman candle, skyrocket, toy pistol, fire balloon or any other combustible fireworks or any article, compound or material prepared for the making of a pyrotechnic display."

The measure then makes it a misdemeanor "to fire or explode" any of the articles enumerated, or to "employ any firearm for the purpose of making a noise or a pyrotechnic display." The bill however provides that the forbidden articles can be sold and shipped outside the state. The measure provides for a public display of fireworks under a permit.

CAUGHT IN WHEEL, MAN'S JAW BROKEN

Harry Lodge Jerked Into Engine When His Coat Catches On Wheel.

When his coat caught in the wheel of a gasoline engine which was being used on his farm four miles north of Lisbon, Harry Lodge was jerked into the machine and badly injured. The accident happened Monday evening. Lodge was brought to the Salem hospital and given surgical attention. It was found that his jaw was broken, the cheek bone crushed and several gashes cut in his head. His coat was ripped from his body almost instantly by the rapidly revolving wheel and to this he possibly owes his life. He returned home Wednesday evening.

Student Writes Excellent Paper On Beethoven's Life

Eighth Grade Pupils, Under Direction Of Miss Orr, Are Studying Life And Writings Of Great Composer.

Under the capable direction of Miss Grace P. Orr, instructor in music in Salem public schools, students of eighth grades have been making a study of the life and writings of Ludwig von Beethoven.

Papers were written during last week telling of this great composer, the compositions being entirely from memory.

Many excellent papers were written by the students, one of the best being that of Joe Marsilio, with a grade of 99.

The instruction in the lives of great music composers is a part of the study course given by Miss Orr in the public schools, instruction being given in both the historical and practical music work.

The paper written by Marsilio follows:

"Ludwig von Beethoven was born in Bonn, Germany, Dec. 17, 1770. His father was a tenor singer and his mother was a cook. At the age of four Beethoven began his musical career under the tutelage of his father. His father decided to make a prodigy out of his son so he fairly beat music into the poor boy. Beethoven liked to play but he did not play as well when he was beaten.

"At the age of eight he astonished the world by his violin playing and at 14 was a choir singer. In 1787 he made a trip to Vienna where he met the great Mozart, who said to other people, 'Mark that boy! Some day he will make a stir in the world.'"

In 1820 he became totally deaf. It was while in this sorrowful state that he composed his most wonderful music. His manner at the piano was quiet and dignified but not so his (Continued on eighth page.)

NINE LIVES LOST AS BLAST CAUSES ALMSHOUSE FIRE

Seven Victims Are Women,
All Aged And Helplessly Bed-ridden.

MAN SAVES THREE
THEN GIVES LIFE

Attendants Carry Inmates
From Their Sleeping Quarters.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 15.—Nine persons, seven of them women, lost their lives in an explosion and fire that swept through the county almshouse at Angelica early today.

The women were all aged and helplessly bed-ridden.

One of the men who perished was Charles Sanborn, an attendant. A few minutes before he lost his life he had succeeded in saving three inmates.

The explosion took place in the boiler room and the fire spread rapidly through the institution.

When the explosion occurred attendants rushed to the sleeping quarters and carried out many inmates but fast-spreading flames soon cut their entrance off.

Sanborn, despite constant warnings, made his way into the sleeping quarters for a third time, after bringing out three women. That was the last seen of him. His charred body in the debris of the entrance hall of the sleeping quarters was mute testimony to his courage and extreme sacrifice.

The other man killed is still unidentified.

Authorities stated it would be impossible to get the names of the women until a careful check-up of all the inmates.

The inmates included 24 women, nearly all of them of advanced age and many of them very feeble and 29 men most of them feeble.

The charred bodies of the six bed-ridden victims were recovered. The seventh woman to die lost her life when she succeeded in getting out of her bed, going to a window on the second floor, jumping to the ground before any attempt could be made to rescue her.

ARTHUR JOHNSON COMMITTS SUICIDE BY HANGING SELF

Body Of Homeworth Farmer
Found In Barn Early
Wednesday Night.

Arthur Johnson, 30, a portersous farmer living about one-half mile northeast of Homeworth, committed suicide by hanging himself in the barn on his farm early Wednesday evening.

It is the belief of the family that Johnson had become temporarily despondent and that while in this condition took his life. He had been suffering from a nervous malady for more than a year.

He seemed to be in his usual spirits when he left the home Wednesday afternoon to do some chores around the farm. When he failed to return at the supper hour, Mrs. Johnson instituted a search.

O. C. Hahn, a neighbor, located the man's body hanging from a rafter in the haymow of the barn. He had been dead some time when the body was discovered.

The victim had been a resident of that section during the greater part of his life. He was a member of the Church of the Brethren at Homeworth.

In addition to his widow he is survived by two children, Walter aged six, and Wade aged three; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnson; one sister, Mrs. Earl Thomas; and two brothers, Frank and Elmer Johnson, all of Homeworth.

DR. SCHWARTZ TO ADDRESS MEDICS

Dr. E. J. Schwartz, Columbus, chief of the division of vital statistics of the state health department, formerly of Salem, will be the principal speaker at a dinner meeting of the Columbiana County Medical society Friday evening at the Presbyterian church. The 6 o'clock dinner, to be served by the women of this church, will be followed by talks. Dr. S. A. McCutcheon, county health commissioner, will speak on the Schick test.

Object To Basketball In New School House

Tiffin, O., March 15.—Because they allege the board of education of Kansas station school have provided for an auditorium for "roller skating and basketball purposes," 43 taxpayers of the district have filed suit in common pleas court here to enjoin the issue of $50,000 in bonds to erect a new school building to replace the one destroyed by fire three weeks ago.

SUIT SEEKS ANNULMENT OF SCHOOL YOUTHS' MARRIAGE

Leetonia, March 15.—(Spl.)—Sut has been filed in common pleas court at Lisbon asking annulment of the runaway marriage of Helen Holland of this city and Daniel Mark Miller of Lisbon, which took place recently at Westchester, W. Va., it was learned today.

The suit was based on parental objection and it is claimed the couple did not have the consent of their parents to wed and that they are under the legal age. Youthfulness of the couple is said to be the main reason for the case being filed, it is claimed.

The bride was a student at Leetonia High school prior to the marriage while the husband has been a college student, it was stated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holland of Leetonia and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Miller of Lisbon.

KENT TO RECEIVE ALL IT REQUESTED IN STATE BUDGET

House Finance Committee
Backs Down On Threat
In McGilvrey Case.

Columbus, March 15.—The biennial appropriation bill, which will be introduced in the house today, will carry $700,000, the full amount requested for the Kent Normal school, the house finance committee having backed down on its threat not to grant any funds to that institution until its president, J. E. McGilvrey, is removed.

The trustees of Kent Normal definitely refused to dismiss McGilvrey.

Reductions in the proposed annual taxes for motor busses from $200 to $600 for each motor bus and from $200 to $900 for each truck to $100 to $250 for busses and $75 to $300 for trucks have been made by Senator Collier, author of the bill. There will be no further public hearings on the bill and it will be submitted to the state utilities commission immediately.

The fireproof bill, providing that male violators of prohibition laws be compelled to work out their fines on the roads and women offenders be committed to Marysville reformatory, has been recommended for passage in the house.

Auto Bill Recommended

The house taxation committee has recommended for passage the Voreys bill reducing penalties for failure to pay taxes on time from 15 per cent to ten per cent.

The senate taxation committee recommended for passage the Price bill, transferring from the secretary of state to the state tax commission the registration of automobiles, requiring county auditors to issue the license tags, and compelling owners to return their machines for taxation at the same time they apply for the tags. The tax listing date for automobiles will be changed from April 1 to January 1 by the bill.

The Pence bill, after a long fight in committee with many changes, has passed the senate. It restrains public utilities from putting into effect any increase in rates until 120 days after the application of the utility commission to the state utilities commission for such increase.

At present they must wait only 30 days after application to raise the rates.

BRITISH DISCUSS RUHR MEDIATION

London, March 15.—Although Premier Bonar Law rejected the German proposal for British intervention in the Ruhr brought to London by a member of the British parliament, the matter is not ended and deliberations upon the advisability of mediation are still in progress, it was learned this afternoon.

The German government is understood to have drawn up a new reparations offer, lacking only some of the details, which will be made to France if Great Britain, the United States or a strong group of neutrals pledge their services to mediate.

Great Britain is approaching a decision upon Ruhr intervention and it may be reached within a week or ten days.

Anti-Slavery Days Recalled By Abbie Whinnery's Letter

"God Is Not Dead," Sojourner Truth's Famous Saying, Was First Heard At Anti-Slavery Meeting In Salem.

Writing in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Abbie Whinnery, former Salem woman, recalls an interesting and historical incident in the anti-slavery days of Salem's early history in a letter to the Public Ledger editor she says:

"I have read with much approving interest in today's Public Ledger the letter of Frederick A. Richle concerning recent Public Ledger editorials but I wish to clear up an error concerning declaration 'God is not dead.'"

There present could know that a man who at that time in the state of ill-health was rapidly growing into the highest type of statesmanship would, within a decade with one stroke of his pen, emancipate a race.

VITAL STATISTICS SHOW POPULATION INCREASE OF 121

288 Births And 167 Deaths
In Salem Last Year,
Dr. Church Reports.

VIOLENCE CLAIMS
12 VICTIMS HERE

527 Contagious Cases, 247 Cases Of Measles In One Month.

Salem's birth rate exceeded the death rate during 1922 by 125 per cent according to the annual report of Dr. T. T. Church, health commissioner, announced Thursday.

There were 288 births against 167 deaths during 1922 the report shows. There were more girls than boys born during the year, the female total being 143, one more than the male with 142. Of these three were colored.

September was the banner month for births, 37 babies being born, 19 boys and 18 girls. The fourth ward led in increased population with 101 births, followed by the First ward with 82. The second ward with 55 led the Third ward with 50.

The general birth rate for the year was 28.8 per thousand population, with the resident birth rate being 25.8. Of the total births, 30 were transient.

Most Deaths In July

The resident death rate was 13.3 per thousand population, 34 deaths being non-resident. Twenty-two deaths during July made the high mark of the year, and seven during October was the low mark.

As with the birth rate the Fourth ward had the highest number of deaths with 64. The Second ward was next with 41, followed by the First ward with 34 and the Third ward with 28.

The greatest number of deaths during the year occurred among persons between the ages of 70 and 80 years. Between the ages of 60 and 70 years there were 22 deaths and a like total between the ages of 80 and 90. The lowest number of deaths was between the ages of 10 and 20 years, with only four being reported.

12 Violent Deaths

Brain diseases claimed the greatest number of victims with 32 deaths. Of these 10 were from apoplexy and three from paralysis. Heart trouble caused 27 deaths and chest diseases 18. Of the latter total eight were pneumonia victims and seven broncho pneumonia.

There were eight deaths from accidents, two from burns, one suicide and one from asphyxia, making a total of 12. Influenza claimed one victim, measles one and whooping cough two. Two died from appendicitis and two from peritonitis. Tuberculosis claimed four deaths during the year. There were nine deaths from cancers.

The closest to an epidemic the city came was during the month of June when 154 cases of measles were reported. A total of 247 cases of measles was reported for the entire year, the majority of these cases coming during the summer months. But one death occurred out of 247 cases.

Only Two Typhoid Cases

But two cases of typhoid fever were reported during the year and only one case of mumps. Thirty-three cases of diphtheria were reported for the year and 61 cases of scarlet fever. The report of communicable diseases for the year shows the following number of cases of each: measles 247; mumps 1; whooping cough 133; typhoid 2; typhoid fever 2; syphilis 3; chickenpox 43; scarlet fever 61; diphtheria 33, with a grand total of 527 for the year.

The health board was operated at a cost of $2,768.57 for 1922, the report shows, making a per capita cost of 27 1/2 cents. This included salaries, quarantine expenses, medical supplies, removal of dead animals and printing expense.

Salem's Greatest Need

WHAT is Salem's greatest need? Ask that question of a dozen citizens in different walks of life, or engaged in the same occupation, and you will get nearly one dozen different answers. The reason is simple—it's all from the viewpoint one takes. The real estate man and the home-seeker will tell you the greatest need is for more houses; the one whose interests center in community social and recreational problems will tell you a center for all community activities in the crying need; one group will say law enforcement, another a religious and spiritual awakening, another better streets, another pure water and a plentiful supply of it.

All of them will be presenting logical arguments in behalf of their replies, for all of them could be argued from a logical standpoint. The only trouble with any of them would be the emphasis placed upon their importance. All these and many other needs can be found in this community, as in most other communities, large and small. Most of them are important, too. The housing situation, pointed at a meeting Tuesday night as the city's greatest need, is becoming more serious because there seems to be no effort to find a way out. There must be more houses, as the speaker declared, if we are going to take care of the city's growth.

Important as this problem may seem, there is one of far greater importance both to the growth of the city and to its present welfare. To those who think first of health, as all of us should, the water problem is the greatest that confronts Salem today. For two years, as a physician said the other day, Salem's health has been hanging by the thread of a small quantity of chlorine used to purify the city water. The health record in that time has been reassuring, for only two cases of typhoid fever were reported during the entire year of 1932, but the water problem has been settled only temporarily and with little or no assurance as to the future. Preliminary steps have paved the way for a permanent program, but the next step—some real action—is being delayed. Time will be required after the program is set in motion, so that there should be as little delay as possible in reaching that stage. Of all the great needs in Salem a permanent solution for its water problem should receive first consideration. A larger and purer supply will mean untold wealth to the community.

The Kent Deadlock
NO APPARENT headway is being made with efforts to end the deadlock between the finance committee of the legislature and the trustees of Kent Normal school concerning appropriations for that institution. The committee handed down the ultimatum some time ago that if the school wants state funds for the next two years it must remove Dr. J. E. McGilvrey from the presidency. The trustees are just as determined that the president shall remain. The people of northern Ohio are at a loss to understand why the legislative committee persists in a course that has the effect of impairing the usefulness of this institution at a time when, according to the reports of its administrators, it was beginning to give its greatest service to the state.

There has been no suggestion anywhere in the opposition from Columbus that the Kent institution has not been well conducted, or that the grade of its scholarship was not up to standard. Report of the per capita cost of instruction have shown that Kent Normal trained more teachers for considerably less of the taxpayers' money than was the record of any other normal school in the state. Those who have graduated from the school are intensely loyal to it, and the people of Kent are practically unanimous in commending the good work done by the entire school staff. Among those most interested the impression is growing that the opposition to President McGilvrey is being carried beyond a prudent concern for the welfare of a public institution and is beginning to savor of vindictiveness and persecution.

Two years ago there was a like effort to stop appropriations for Kent normal, but it did not advance beyond the third stage. The funds were forthcoming when an investigation showed that Dr. McGilvrey was blameless of the charges made against him. The board of trustees is on good ground in refusing to comply with the legislative order to remove the president, after impartial investigation had given him such good acquittance.

Under the circumstances, with Dr. McGilvrey's own community and associates giving wholehearted approval to this finding, it is not likely that the legislative committee will take the responsibility of closing a state institution merely because it does not like its president or his friends, or because it wishes to please the president's enemies.

LITTLE THINGS

By MYRTA ALICE LITTLE

Before the big upheaval Betty Brown was contented as a pink-eyed rabbit in a pink clover patch. She helped her mother with the housework and wrote stories and sold them to the newspaper, which was printed in the city, ten miles away.

Betty's sweetheart, Tom Saunders, was a farmer. He lived in the big, two and one-half-story brick house on Big Hill. Wednesday and Saturday evenings he always called on Betty, and they usually went driving with the red-wheeled buggy and the black mare, and talked plans.

Tom's plans were perhaps about the new Holsteins, or the hay crop, the yield of corn or the new potato bins. Betty loved the smell of a farm, so she always listened with brown eyes wide open, lips parted and, maybe, a sturdy hand tucked into Tom's and one of her molasses cakes tucked into his mouth. That is she always listened until the time of the big upheaval.

It was one evening the last week in August. The heat of the first part of the month had cooled down into a fall-like breezy time, with the chirp of crickets and the elderberries turning blue-black along the meadows. Tom had washed the wagon with especial care that night after supper and had put on a brand new shirt with a blue stripe in it that matched his eyes, and a new pair of khaki trousers. Tom had special plans for that night. But—so had Betty.

Tom started leading up to his plans first. The second crop was going to turn out fine. Doubt if they could get men enough to harvest it. Milk checks a third more, now that they were distributing for themselves, and—Tom had been thinking—the brick house was big enough for two families—why couldn't he and Betty—not wait for spring, but be married along in September some time, take the little trip they'd planned.

Betty's mind being packed full of her own new, strange plans, she probably heard just two words of Tom's eager, shy planning—"married!" and "together." They gave her her cue. She shook her curly head and plunged swiftly into her own tale. She poked a closely-written letter into Tom's hands.

"It's an offer to write regular things for the newspaper. I got it yesterday," she said, before Tom had read a dozen words. "I want to see them this afternoon. My cousin, Nat, works there, you know, and he recommended me. They're going to let me write about big cities and touring cars and theaters. I've engaged my room. There'll be errand work around the office, I suppose, but—I'm almost on the staff, Tom, and if I keep on I may be editor—some day—and—"

"And—our drives and plans?" stammered Tom.

"But this is—big!" said Betty.

"The most wonderful chance."

"Our plans look pretty big to me, girl," said Tom.

"But, Tom, you ought to have some ambition for me. They told me over at the office I'm too smart a girl to be buried alive in a little country town, and just cook and sweep."

"Bought woodland joins our farm today," said Tom, quietly. "Deed ready tomorrow. Made enough off surplus to swing it. We can have a house of our own, you know, Betty, any time you say. Have a girl to help you, if the work is too hard."

"It isn't the hardness of it. It's the—smallness," said Betty Brown, quickly. "I'm not going to be buried alive, I tell you. I'm glad I woke up before it was too late."

So Betty went to live in the city in a tiny fourth floor room, tramped the narrow city sidewalks, breathed the stifling city smells, jostled crowds, and wrote three-inch city tales. "Cover police court—10 a. m." "Cover girls' club," they told her at the newspaper office.

Betty got busy, busier than she'd ever been before—the hurried, city-kind of busy, and she got hotter through the Indian summer, fiercer, crosser, so useless feeling that it hurt clear down to the toes of her fast wearing-out shoes. She wanted a taste of home-made molasses cakes and honest-to-goodness vegetables so much she could not even touch the roast lamb that tasted like roast beef pork and veal. She wanted one drive in the red-wheeled buggy, one sniff of something besides dirt and smoke and grease, one feel of air on the hilltop—that used to get into her stories, and never did any more.

Tom's weekly letter finished her, and all it said was: "Working night and day. Hand short on the second crop."

Betty explained as well as she could to the editor, packed her trunk, fairly leaped on board the three o'clock train, walked clear to Tom's house from the depot, and marched into the barn. Tom was milking the new Jersey.

Betty Brown sniffed the blessed, honest smells and swooped into Tom's arms. "I want to cook great, fat cakes and great kettles of vegetables. I want to clean great big houses," she whispered. "I want lots of fresh air, and big fields, Tom. I want to be your extra hand. I'll rake or mow—or anything. I won't be cooped up in a city and write about things. I'll write simple little stories with great billtops in them. I'm—ashamed, Tom Saunders, I never knew before—how big little things are!"

Frank Is Frank.

One afternoon I was invited to a bridge party. The woman who usually takes care of my son was ill. I told him that he would have to go to the party with me. This displeased him, because he had planned to play all afternoon. Knowing how much he likes angel-food cake, I told him Mrs. Blank was going to serve ice cream and angel-food cake. He at once changed his mind about playing.

All went well until my son ramblod out into the kitchen, where he saw Mrs. Blank taking two cakes out of the oven.

She said, "Frank, I'll bet you can't guess what kind of cakes these are."

My son replied: "They're angel-food cakes, because that's what we came for."—Chicago Tribune.

Teeth as Well as Finger Prints.

The unhappy criminal son is likely to have no chance to escape the penalty of his misdeeds. Nor is anybody likely to have a chance to hide his identity for innocuous reasons, since, in addition to the plan for the universal finger-printing, the rogues' galleries of the country are now adding minute descriptions of teeth.

Recently a prisoner on Welfare Island who had been sent up under an assumed name was discovered to be a state prisoner who had broken parole and sent back to Sing Sing to serve out the remainder of a two-year sentence. His teeth revealed his identity.

LEETONIA FLOOR TEAM NO MATCH FOR SALEM HIGHS

Salem Boys Win By Score Of 44-14, Girls' Score Is 29 to 7.

Working like well oiled machines, the basketball teams of Salem High walked away from the Leetonia scholastic teams Wednesday night at the high gym. The boys won their contest with ease by a 44 to 14 score while the girls came through with a 29 to 7 victory.

The girls' team performed a feat that called for some clever guarding when they held the Leetonia maidens without scoring a single field goal. Seven fouls was the medium for all the points scored by the visitors during the evening.

After getting away to a safe lead Coach Vivian made numerous substitutions with the boys' squad, 13 players getting into the fray. It was a runaway for the fast working Salem machine and 40 of their 44 points came from the field.

Houser with nine field goals led the attack, closely pursued by Sartick with 8. Sheehan with two field goals, added four more points from the foul line. Clever guarding held the Leetonia team to seven field goals.

Williaman with six field goals and five fouls led the scoring for the Salem girls. Tinsman followed closely with five from the field and Cosgrove who replaced Tinsman dropped in one from the field.

The clever guarding of Whinnery, Cosgrove and Harris was one of the main features of the engagement, holding their forwards scoreless during the entire contest. Four substitutions were made when the locals rolled up a safe lead.

MRS. H. J. COX IS OUT WITH FACTS

Emphatic In Declaring Tanlac Overcame Stomach Trouble When All Else Failed

"Just think of it ten years suffering ended in much less than that many weeks," is the enthusiastic statement made a few days ago by Mrs. H. J. Cox, 85 Archwood ave., Akron, Ohio, in relating her wonderful experience with Tanlac.

"Ever since my college days ten years ago I suffered constantly from stomach trouble and constant spells of acute indigestion. I would almost suffocate at times from the gas on my stomach, which also caused fearful pains around my heart. This constant suffering kept me always exhausted and miserable and try as I might, I could get no relief whatever.

"But here it is the Tanlac treatment has freed me at last of the indigestion and stomach trouble so completely that I can eat whatever I want without ever feeling a sign of distress. I have gained a number of pounds in weight, too, and am feeling just grand in every way. Tanlac has certainly showered rich blessings on me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good drug gists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

MARKKET OPENS STRONG
New York, March 16.—The stock market opened strong today. The motor group was the leader. Studs-baker advanced 5/8 and fractional gains were made in Mack Truck and Hudson Motors. Eclipse Aided Columbus.
An eclipse is said to have aided Columbus on the island of Jamaica a few years after he discovered America. The savages had taken Columbus and his companions prisoners and would give them no food. By his reckonings Columbus knew that an eclipse of the moon was coming. He called the Indian chiefs to him and told them that if they did not bring him and his companions food that very night he would take from them the light of the moon. At first they laughed at him, but when the dark shadow began to creep over the face of the moon they ran to him with all the food they could get together, beseeching him to forgive them and to order the moon to shed its light again.
This happened March 1, 1504, a date by which, according to modern tables of eclipses, there would have been an eclipse.

Bill Provides Pen Term For Home Breaker

Columbus, March 15.—Long prison sentences as penalties for the breaking up of a home have been suggested to the senate in a bill submitted by Senator H. P. McCoy, Republican, of Mahoning county.
The measure would provide for prison terms of from one to fifteen years for persons who "induce, seduce or procure" the wife or husband of another to abandon or desert his wife or husband if the action results in the divorcing of the person affected.
In a speech from the floor of the senate, Senator McCoy expressed belief that the husband so deprived of his wife, or the wife so deprived of her husband, might better be allowed personally to avenge the act, but that this mode of retribution is "going out of fashion."
After being advised of the opinion of some that the measure might be directed at a relative who for any reason might give advice resulting in the breaking up of a home, Senator McCoy said he had only drafted the measure roughly and would seek to have it amended so that the penalty would apply only to such persons who had committed such acts and who were named as co-respondent in the resultant divorce case.

VOICE MUST BE CULTIVATED

Teacher Asserts That Every Person Has Ability to Be More or Less a Good Singer.

It has been stated by a leading singing teacher that we all would have a good voice if it were cultivated, but still some voices would be better than others. There is a reason why we do not all have really fine voices. The "sound box," as it were, of our body is the larynx, or as most people call it, the "Adam's Apple." Across this stretch our two vocal chords, like the strings of a violin, thick for a bass, thin for a tenor, and so on. The "bow" that strikes these chords is, of course, our own breath, and the different notes are produced by the moving of certain muscles at the base of the larynx.

Just as the tone of a violin depends largely upon the body of the instrument, so even perfect vocal chords are of little use unless our body contains a sufficient space, properly placed, for their tone to echo in; resonating cavities, we call them. We therefore need for the best voice a perfect sound box and perfect chords, plus fully developed "resonating cavities," and good muscles to work the larynx.

Added to this, our mouth and tongue must be placed in precisely the best position for our particular notes. Perfect health is needed for the breath that is our "bow," a perfect ear to distinguish the slightest variation of tone, and finally a long and expensive training to enable us to work every part of our sound-machine to the best advantage. Given all these factors, we have the perfect singer. Short in any one of them, we have a less perfect singer! —Exchange.

TAKE SALTS FOR A KIDNEY BACKACHE

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach gours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

manner of leading. At the sign "ff" he would bounce into the air like a rubber ball and at the sign "pp" he would squat on his knees and extend the palms of his hands. He was not handsome and made an utter failure of trying to dress in smart clothes.

"If one could take a peep into his study room he would find numerous papers scattered about and in the greatest disorder. He composed but one opera. He composed the "Fifth and Ninth Symphonies" and the beautiful "Moonlight Sonata." As he and a friend were walking along they heard the strain of a piano. They hastened to the window from whence it came and peeped a woman and a man were sitting in the room; one playing the piano, the other mending shoes. The girl explained "I wish we had someone who could play the piano."

"At this Beethoven walked boldly into the room and proceeded to play the piano. All at once the candle blew out and Beethoven's friend raised the window shade. The full flood of a new moon illuminated the room and Beethoven began to play the most wonderful music the small party had ever heard.

"In after times Beethoven called this his 'Sonata in F. Minor' but the popular name has ever been the 'Moonlight Sonata.'

"Beethoven had a hard time. He was known to exclaim to his friend, 'If I could only hear once more I would be happier than anyone in the world.'

"The greatest of all composers passed away in Vienna, March 24, 1827. He was deeply mourned."

SPRING PLEASANT TIME IN CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, UNLIKE THE OTHER BIG CITIES, HAS MANY JOYS OF COUNTRY LIFE.

CONGRESS GOES, BIRDS COME

Song Sparrows Are Early Arrivals, and Purple Grackles Decorate the Lawns—Fish Crows Inspect Their Last Year's Nests.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—While congress literally is marching away from the capital, spring is marching into it. The lawmakers are leaving just as the Capital City is putting on the best dress which nature has put into its wardrobe.

One who has lived in the country and has something of a heart knowledge of the places where the willows grow, where the marsh blackbirds nest, and where the vesper sparrow sings, confesses to a liking for the spring and its accompaniments, even though he be no poet.

Washington is sort of half city and half country, and the people here, unlike those in other great cities of the country, have some real sense of the joys of country life. The great parks of the city are filled with birds, cultivated flowers are at the doorstep, and wild flowers of all kinds are just beyond the doorstep. Washington's spring is alluring.

For years in this town the writer has kept a sort of calendar of the seasons. The soft maples which are abundant in and about Washington have shown for 20 years a first reddening of their buds on some day between February 8 and February 15. These are the first real signs of spring in Washington except for the fact that if the purple grackle, commonly known as the crow blackbird, has left the city at all during the winter, it is likely to return to its favorite parks about the first week in February.

Song Sparrows Come Early.

For three years in succession a song sparrow has appeared on February 14 in a little clump of bushes just outside the house wing of the capitol. This bird stays in Washington all winter, but he lurks under bushes along the great river and only occasionally breaks into song. St. Valentine's day has been chosen for three years certainly by one song sparrow—I take it for granted, although I knew nothing about it, that it is the same bird—to take perch on the top of a high in the capitol grounds and to sing through the hours his welcome to the season which is at hand.

John Burroughs, the great naturalist who died about a year ago, studied the bird life in the spring in Washington, not only to his own satisfaction and joy, but unquestionably to the satisfaction and joy of many hundred thousands of American readers. In his spring notes at the capital Burroughs calls particular attention to the purple grackle or crow blackbird, which, in the year of his writing (I think it was in 1867) "stalked across the treasury lawn." These purple grackles, resplendent in the color of Tyre, still are stalking across the somewhat limited lawn space of the Treasury building. The sheen of their feathers as the sun strikes them is like the sheen on the spears of the well-known Assyrians in the well-known poem.

The cardinals, commonly called the redbirds, stay in Washington all winter, but just as congress leaves in March they come forth from their hiding places in the underbrush along the river to appear in the parks. There probably is no direct connection between the appearance of the birds and the disappearance of congress, but unless there is a long session, or an extra session in the year when congress must close on March 4, the lawmakers lose the chance to look upon the lordly cardinal as he shines redly in the trees and whistles with a boy's cheerfulness to the world.

Fish Crows at White House.

Washington has a crow that is not the common corn crow of America. It is called the fish crow. It is about two-thirds the size of the bird that the farmers ordinarily look upon as the foe of the cornfields, and it has a voice which, to put it politely, is much less musical than that of its bigger brother known to the scientists as Corvus Americanus.

About four or five pairs of fish crows nest each year in the big trees in the White House grounds. Now, these birds which for some reason or other bear a Latin name which in English is rendered as bone-breaker, have a most peculiar habit. They do not nest until the leaves come upon the trees late in April, but they visit the nests of the former year as early as March first and poke about in them, apparently trying to make up their minds how much patching and mending will be necessary to make the old house good for another season.

Of course nobody knows definitely why the fish crows come back to look over the old nests so early, or, if the old nests have been destroyed, to look over the old nesting places, but it is a curious fact that daily through the month of March and through the first half of April the birds are "plugging" about their last year homes and are thinking of something which man knoweth not.

CRIPPLED CHILD GETS ATTENTION

880 Are Being Educated In Special Classes In Ohio Cities.

Crippled children are coming into their own in Ohio with respect to educational opportunities. The program of special classes for children thus handicapped is directed by the State Department of Education and 850 are now enrolled in such classes throughout the state.

Busses are used for the purpose of getting these crippled children to and from school and all classrooms are located on the first floor so that there will be no long flights of steps to climb. The instruction is as varied as that given to any of the pupils in the regular classes and since the classes for cripples are small there is better opportunity for adjusting the training to the needs of each individual.

Where there are children so badly afflicted that they are not able to attend school, even with the help of transportation, the Department of Education approves home teaching with state reimbursement. Teachers are employed to do this work in several cities, notable Cleveland, Lorain, Elyria, Bucyrus, Newark, Massillon, St. Marys and Logan.

Local boards of education which establish classes for cripples may receive as much as $300 per pupil from the state. Reimbursement to boards is not in a lump sum, however; only as much is given as represents the excess of the cost of the education of such pupils above the cost of the education of an equal number of pupils of normal needs of the same school grades.

Classes for crippled children are thus far located entirely in cities. The places having classes and the number of classes which each has are: Akron, 2; Ashtabula, 1; Barberton, 1; Canton, 1; Cincinnati, 9; Cleveland, 8; Columbus, 1; Dayton, 1; Elyria, 1; Lima, 1; Piqua, 1; Springfield, 1; Toledo, 9; Youngstown, 1.

One of the four Liberty engines which propelled the navy seaplane NC-1 on its epoch-making transatlantic flight in May, 1919, has been added to the aircraft exhibit in the National Museum at Washington.

FOOD PRODUCTION GAIN IS GREATER THAN POPULATION

American farmers have since 1910 increased in productive efficiency at least a fifth. The statement that population is increasing faster than food supply does not hold for America.

So asserting as the result of their most recent study of farm production and prices, rural economists of the Ohio State university present the following figures:

"Since 1910, American agricultural production has increased 22 per cent, as compared to a population increase of 15 per cent. The production of foodstuffs, then, has outrun population increases, and has not, as is frequently stated, lagged behind.

Since 1910 too, the number of people living on farms has increased less than one per cent. The exact figure is six-tenths of one per cent. Since in the face of this decrease the total volume of farm products advanced 22 per cent, it appears that there has been an increase of over 20 per cent crop production, have all contributed to this good showing. J. I. Falconer, head of the department of rural economics, who announces these figures, adds this comment: "Larger equipment and machinery, better livestock and better crop production, have all contributed to this good showing. "In view of such an increase in efficiency, the present tendency of our farm population to remain stationary is not alarming."

THREE TAX BILLS BEFORE SENATE

One, the Taft Measure, Almost Certain to Pass.

FIGHT ON OTHERS PREDICTED

One Would Abolish Elective Assessors and the Second Provides Severe Penalties for False Returns—Gas-line Tax Bill to Hold Attention of the House—Biennial Appropriation Bill Expected This Week.

Columbus, March 15.—Taxation will hold the legislators' attention this week. Three bills which passed the house last week are now before the senate. These are the Taft bill, increasing tax limitations in cities and villages from 15 mills to 17 mills and reducing them in rural districts from 16 to 14 mills; the Albaugh bill, to abolish elective assessors and create a county board of assessors, which would appoint expert taxers to list property now escaping taxation, and the Robison bill, providing penalties for making a false tax return or no return.

Leaders say the Taft bill is almost certain to pass, but whether the uniform rulers can force through the senate their portion of the program remains to be seen. The Cornstalk club will have the help of the four Democrats in the senate, it is said, and may be able to line up enough Republicans to force approval of the Albaugh and Robison bills.

An interesting contest is expected when the gasoline tax bill gets to the floor of the house, since it has the determined opposition of the automobile clubs of the state and other organizations. The rural members of the house and others will leave no stone unturned to assure the bill's passage. The issue is nicely drawn.

The income tax proposal is supported by those who believe that it will solve some of the tax difficulties of the farmers and real estate owners, who protest that they are paying the big share of the taxes under present conditions. The wage earner and the salaried class are chiefly affected by the income tax proposal, which is sponsored by Representative Fouts of Morgan county and other uniform rule adherents.

This week is expected to see the biennial appropriation bill submitted in the house by Representative Harry D. Silver, chairman of the house finance committee. The house committee has completed its work and the bill is now in process of compilation for submission. The senate finance committee made its final trip of the season Friday. At the state hospital at Massillon a request was submitted to it for an appropriation of $175,000 to finance various improvements.

Of 899 bills introduced during the present session, 35 have passed both houses and 21 reached Governor Donahue. The governor has approved 14, vetoed three and has four under consideration. Bills introduced affect 2,135 of the 15,000 sections of the General Code, 1,376 amended, 262 supplemented and 483 repealed.

Support of J. E. McGilvrey, president of Kent State Normal school, was reaffirmed at a meeting of trustees of that institution, held recently in Cleveland. McGilvrey's dismissal had been demanded by the finance committees of both the senate and house of the state legislature as a condition to further financial assistance from the state. The committees declared they would maintain their position even if it should mean the closing of the institution.

D. C. Wills of Cleveland, chairman of the trustees, said the principle involved is whether executive power shall be vested in the trustees or whether it shall be taken over by the legislature. "In broader terms," Mr. Wills added, "it is whether the school shall be operated by educators as an institution of learning or whether it shall be run in the interests of politics."

The school has sufficient funds under a former appropriation to operate until July 1. If no further state appropriation is made, it is said, it will be necessary to close the school at that time.

Dr. John E. Monger, state director of health, announces that as a means in the furtherance of an efficient and comprehensive health service throughout the state, the bureau of child hygiene of the Ohio health department plans to assist health districts by the operation of a series of general health demonstrations in which the hygiene of maternity and infancy will be given special attention.

Three of these demonstrations will be organized as soon as possible, each with the assistance of the local health commissioners and medical society. The work will be diagnostic and educational in nature and in every instance the relationship between patient and physician will be preserved, it was said. The work will be carried on by both nurses and physicians. Dr. Monger explained, by means of home visitation and women's conferences, The home visitation will consist of both instructive talks and actual demonstrations of methods. The most unreserved co-operation of the medical profession is sought. Dr. Monger stated, and to this end the president of several academies of medicine in Ohio have been requested to name obstetricians and pediatricians who will serve as an advisory council in formulating plans and details of the work.

Mrs. Hazel Crane Hadley, director of special classes of the department of education, made reply to recent comments alleged to have been circulated by certain women's organizations to the effect that the education of crippled children in Ohio is being neglected. She declared that there is no excuse for any such neglect and that the department had been misjudged in its efforts to properly instruct the handicapped.

"We have had an appropriation in Ohio since 1913 to further educate crippled children," Mrs. Hadley said, "and we have places provided for the deaf, blind and crippled in our public schools." Mrs. Hadley said that the state has 19 centers or schools in Ohio where special classes for such instruction have been established. There are also 11 schools conducting home instruction for crippled children. Eight hundred and eighty cripples are receiving the proper instruction through this source and all are too badly handicapped to attend the regular public schools, she said.

Approximately $90,798 has been expended by the department of education during the past year for such instruction, according to Mrs. Hadley. Cripples are transported to and from school in buses provided by the state. Those whose disabilities keep them from attending school are given home instruction approved by the department of education with state reimbursement.

The farm is held the best place for allens by the Ohio division of markets, which has just completed a survey of conditions throughout the state. Much data has been collected with reference to the influence agriculture exerts upon the stupendous task of Americanization now being worked out by the state and federal educational bureaus. Market heads maintain that it is unfortunate for the immigrant and his family as well as to his adopted country, that the great majority of foreign-born who reach American shores should at once be picked up by the big corporations of our country and colonized close by some big manufacturing establishment.

The marketing officials believe that practical agriculture affords the greatest opportunity for prompt, effective and satisfactory Americanism. The hope of America lies in the farm, it is asserted. The hope of the farm lies in untiring labor and the reward of labor must come with improved marketing which can be brought only by higher standards and better qualities, which will be followed by better prices.

State Fair Manager G. R. Lewis announces he expects to increase the magnitude of Ohio's annual exposition in a number of ways. In virtually every case the appropriations will be larger than in any previous year, and important changes in the competitions are expected to be brought through the increased funds. One of the changes in the state fair code is a plan to increase by half the amount of publicity heretofore given to the event. This action now promises to rise into one of the most intensive and far-reaching publicity and advertising campaigns ever conducted by the fair board.

Important changes also will be made in the boys' and girls' club work competition, swine display and special attractions, it was said. With an appropriation of an extra $2,000 with which to conduct boys' and girls' club work, every one of Ohio's 88 counties will be represented. Last year 65 counties were represented in the contest. For the first time all breeds of swine will be admitted into a futurity competition, about 600 more dollars being appropriated for the swine exhibition alone. More funds are available both for premiums and for general attractions.

C. J. West, state-federal crop statistician, announces that sales of farm land in Ohio during recent months averaged $105 an acre. The compilation was made from reports of 360 sales of farms distributed over the state. When compared with the high prices of four and five years ago, these figures show that much of the inflation in farm land values has been eliminated.

Almost 40 per cent of the reported sales were foreclosures, settlement of estates or made under other forced conditions, West said. For these forced sales the average price was $82 per acre as compared with $118 for the free and open sales. Sales on improved lands averaged $117, as compared with $76 for unimproved farms. The average number of acres in sales reported was 102, with the forced sales averaging 118 acres and free sales 93 acres.

Of the farms 199 acres or more in size, no sales were reported at a greater price than $200, and less than 10 per cent of the farms of this size sold for more than $150 per acre. The figures for these larger farms are interesting because the greater part of the speculation a few years ago was in farms of this class, it was pointed out. At that time sales of $300 per acre were reported and from $200 to $250 was a frequent price.

WASHINGTON TEAM WILL GIVE PLENTY TO WORRY OTHERS

With Fair Pitching Bush's Men Threaten Trouble
In League Race.

Tampa, Fla., March 15.—Under the aggressive leadership of Donnie Bush, the Washington Griffins threaten to make a lot of trouble in the American league race this season, provided they are given fair pitching. Their batting corps collapsed in 1922 before the first month was gone, spoiling one of the best-looking pennant prospects of the season.

Walter Johnson, Ezebel Zachary and George Mogridge are counted on to be regulars from the start and George Gibson, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, expects to cull the rest of the staff from the following. Hollingsworth from Minneapolis, Hankins from Tampa; McGrew from Shreveport; Allan Russell, last year with the Red Sox; Warmoth, from Little Rock and Brilliant, a holdover from last season. Hollingsworth, Hankins and Warmoth are making the best showing at camp here.

Catching Staff Stronger
The catching staff has been strengthened considerably by the addition of "Muddy" Reel, late of the Red Sox; Pete Lapan, from Little Rock and Hargrave from New Haven and the passing of Plinch to Boston and Torres to Shreveport.

Hargrave is a brother of "Bubbles" Hargrave, the Red Sox first-string catcher. Gharriy's arm has recovered its old strength this year and the slugging catcher promises to have a good season, thus ensuring the selectors of plenty of strength behind the plate.

Joe Judge will again be seen at first base and Buck Harris, now field captain, will cover second, but the remainder of the infield is yet to be determined. Roger Peckinpaugh has first call at shortstop because of his experience, but he is being pushed hard by Chick Gagnon, former Holy Cross college star, and Bluege, from Minneapolis.

Another warm fight is being waged at third base with three candidates in line for Howard Shanks' old berth. Joe Evans obtained from Cleveland, in return for "Turkey" Brower, is trying to prove his worth as an infielder. He is being opposed by Bobby Lamotte, who played 62 games at the bag last season and Bill Conroy, from Minneapolis.

Manager Bush is planning to try several combinations before deciding which of the candidates will be his regular shortstop and third baseman. Bluege looks like the best of the lot in the field, with Conroy packing a murderous wallop at bat. It is probable, however, that no final decision in this scrap will be made until after the season is on.

Rice To Be Shifted
Sam Rice, veteran, will be shifted from center to right field and "Goose" Goslin, who led the team in hitting in his first full season, with an average of .324, is the favorite in left. For the vacant place in center field, Dick Wade, who hit .311 for Minneapolis and George Fisher who hit .299 for St. Joe, in the Western league, are in the hunt against George McNamara, a young Chicago semi-pro. Wade is the oldest of the trio, and has the most experience, but Fisher may yet beat him for the place by his hard hitting.

If Evans fails to make good at third base he will be available for the outfield. However, he wants to play in the infield and signed with that understanding.

The presence of so many youngsters in camp has filled the team with pep, a quality that was absent last season. Only Judge Harris and Rice may be safely sure of their positions, it being Clark Griffith's intention to build up a team of fast youngsters such as he led into second place in 1912. There is no pennant talked among the Griffs this spring, but the team is almost certain to be faster than it was a year ago.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allen's, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allen's with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. All druggists can supply you.

MAKING STUDY OF CHIMNEYS

Johns Hopkins University Professor
Has Planned Careful Experiments Concerning Their Behavior.

Why are factory chimneys built the way they are? The answer to this question, according to Prof. A. G. Christie, of the department of mechanical engineering at Johns Hopkins university, is that the first smoke-stacks happened to be built "that way," and everybody else has followed the example. Little is really known, says Professor Christie, of the internal action of the gases in a chimney, and he is accordingly undertaking some investigations into the matter. He has constructed on the grounds of the university a chimney with two platforms, one 25 feet from the ground and the other 25 feet higher, both of them reached by an iron ladder. At each platform the masons have left openings, which will ordinarily be plugged up, but will be cleared whenever the observers are at work. Through each aperture it will be possible for the experimenter to project instruments for the study of the gas flow. Careful records will be kept as material for a more precise knowledge of the factors on which an effective draught depends.

An explanation will thus be found, it is hoped, of the difference in the behavior of chimneys—why, that is to say, one smoke-stack will draw like a vacuum cleaner, while another will choke like a "fliver" which has lost a cylinder or two.

During the two years that have elapsed since the department of antiquities was founded at the instance of the high commissioner, 7,223 objects have been catalogued, of which a selection has been displayed, with due regard to date and provenance, and the Palestine museum in Jerusalem is now open daily to the public. The present accommodation is not altogether suitable, nor is it convenient for visitors; but the beginning has been made.

The total value of antiquities exported under license during this period amounts only to a few thousand dollars, says a Palestine letter to the New York Morning Telegraph. As the national collection becomes more complete, the proportion of antiquities released for export to foreign museums will automatically increase. In the province of the inspectors 1,467 historical sites and monuments have been formally registered, and measures have been taken to protect them, with the collaboration of the police and gendarmes.

1923 FOOTBALL RULES CHANGED

Board Abolishes Onside Kick
From Scrimmage Formation.

New York, March 15.—Taking a far-reaching step calculated to simplify gridiron regulations and eliminate misinterpretations of them, the football rules committee, at its annual meeting, created an approval rulings committee, charged with the task of establishing a basis for precedence in disputed issues arising in the game.

This action was characterized by members as the most important action of the committee, which after a lengthy discussion of rules made but one fundamental change in the regulations for 1923. This change was the abolishment of the onside kick from scrimmage formation a feature which was said to have been little used in recent years and which has been particularly difficult to rule upon when it occurred. The onside kick off formation, was not affected by the decision, however.

Serving as a virtually board of arbitration, the board approved a ruling committee which will interpret moot questions and publish its decisions annually in the form of a supplement to the regular football rules. Its findings, it is believed, will establish a series of precedents to guide officials.

Most of the rules committee's deliberations today were devoted to clarifying various sections of the rules and making a number of minor changes.

These alterations included: Imposing the penalty of 15 yards for clipping either from the spot where the ball was put in play, as the former rule provided, or where the offense occurred, whichever will give the offended side the most ground; removal of the five yards penalty when an onside man touches a kicked ball; giving the defending team the ball if it intercepts an incomplete illegal forward pass, instead of allowing the attacking team to put it in play again and imposing for delay in starting the second half a penalty of 25 yards the same as that for delay at the start of the game, but at the discretion of the rules committee and Walter Camp of Yale re-elected secretary.

THOSE FOOL LITTLE GRUDGES

If One Only Would Pause to Consider the Question, Are They Really Worth While?

The first time I crossed the Atlantic I had the good fortune to find myself in good company. The passenger list was comparatively small and the weather was mild. So, by the time the ship approached Liverpool, the passengers were fairly well acquainted and the atmosphere was decidedly genial. What interested me most about the trip was the sadness reflected here and there during the last two days. John D. Barry writes in the Minneapolis Tribune.

"Well, we'll never be together again," said one passenger, and another said, "I hate to leave all these pleasant people."

Since that time, after voyages of a week or more, even of ships where the passengers have been rather detached, I've noticed a somewhat similar feeling.

Among college students it's well known that during the last year of college there's a pretty general softening up. In the men's college it's very marked. I suppose it's just as marked in the women's colleges, perhaps more so.

Men who had cherished grudges against each other for months or years and hadn't spoken would begin to speak again and would perhaps become friends. Acquaintances that had passed with a slight and would grow more agreeable. Somehow animosity, chilliness, all unpleasant behavior began to seem foolish. It became clear that in this association there was something worth while, something that hadn't been fully appreciated before and that the thing to do was to make the most of it while it lasted.

HAVE TO GET UP NIGHTS FOR BLADDER RELIEF

Try Simple Method This Dayton Man
Reports Relieved Him Quickly

Mr. Wm. D. Oystermeyer, 326 East Second st., says in his own home paper, the Dayton Daily News: "My bladder caused me to get up many times at night and also inconvenienced me as often as every 30 minutes in the day. After taking a few Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) tablets my bladder is perfectly normal. They also relieved a very lame back for me. It gives me much pleasure to tell my friends and bladder like acts on the kidneys and bladder like acts on the bowels. It is not a patent medicine, as the formula is on the package. The tablets cost 2c each. This price makes it possible to place in the formula several high-priced drugs, which are useful for relief. Very likely you have never taken anything like this remedy. Try a few doses for backache, scalding, scanty or high-colored urine, and frequent desire at night."

You can get Lithiated Buchu (Keller formula) at The Lease Drug Co. and Bennett Drug Co. and drug stores everywhere, or write The Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, O.

TRAPPER HAS NEW METHODS

Employs Only Lassoos, Lengths of Chain and Bare Hands in Capture of Wild Animals.

A remarkable article illustrated with very unique photographs appeared in the Wide World Magazine under the caption of "Trapping Wild Animals Alive." It was written by Maj. Jack Allen and the feats he describes are calculated to make the ordinary big game hunter blink with amazement.

"From first to last," says Major Allen, "I never use a gun except in the utmost extremity of self-defense." The only equipment he uses consists of lassoes, lengths of chain and bare hands. With these bloodless instruments Captain Allen has captured jaguars, leopards and tigers. He has had many narrow escapes from death, and his experiences make thrilling reading.

Major Allen says the strength of the tiger is practically equal to that of the lion, while he has the reputation among hunters of being far more courageous. Therefore the process of capturing a tiger alive involves a considerable degree of risk, but on no occasion has Captain Allen met with a mishap.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

"Hearts Aflame"

So great were the crowds at Lowe's State theater, Los Angeles, during the run of Reginald Barker's production of "Hearts Aflame," that the newspapers commented upon the attendance as one of the noteworthy features of the exhibition.

Raving over the fire scenes in "Hearts Aflame" apparently is not a propensity confined to the Pacific Coast critics. E. V. Durling, writing in the New York Globe said:

"There have been many thrilling forest fire scenes made, but that which Reginald Barker has conceived for 'Hearts Aflame' now showing at the Rialto, is by far the best."

EDGAR ALLAN POE TWICE IN SERVICE

ONCE THE POET WAS ENLISTED MAN AND AGAIN HE WAS IN THE MILITARY ACADEMY

NOT ALLOWED TO GRADUATE

His Short Poem on Joseph Lock, Who Too Often Reported the Cadets for Breaches of Discipline, Is Still Extant.

Washington.—Washington always has taken an interest in anything that pertains to the American poet, Edgar Allan Poe. It was not long ago that there died an aged resident of the capital who in his boyhood had known Poe. There are members of the Poe family, not descendants of the poet of course, because he left none, who live in this city, and others who live in Baltimore, where in the year 1849 the most melodious of American poets died under circumstances that were rather obscure.

In the files of the War department in Washington are records which show that Edgar Allan Poe twice was in the military service of the United States, once as an enlisted man and once as a member of the United States corps of cadets at the West Point Military academy. It is probable that no search of the records will show that any comrade of Poe, either as cadet or enlisted man, is living today for it was seventy-four years ago that the poet died.

It took the judges in the case some time to decide to give Edgar Allan Poe his niche in the American Hall of Fame which was established some years ago. Now his name and his image appear among the immortals of American literature. Washington was energetic in its efforts to secure from the commission the decision that Poe was entitled to his place as one of the great American human products.

Gen. Gibson Might Have Known Poe.
Some soldiers are long lived. If they manage to escape the bullets of battle the open air life is likely to give them that physique which can withstand the wear and tear of the years. There still is living in Washington a major-general of the United States army on the retired list, Gen.
Horatio Gibson, who is old enough to have known Poe, for he was an officer in the United States army, recently graduated from West Point at the time the poet died. General Daniel Rucker who lived to be nearly one hundred years old and who died in this city some eight or ten years ago, might have known Poe in the service, but he has gone and no soldier now is living who could have been the poet's comrade in arms either in the ranks or in the corps of cadets.

It may be consolation to the hundreds of men in the United States who entered West Point and who were not allowed to graduate therefrom because of some dereliction of duty or because of some deficiency in mathematics, French, or something else, to know that a man who shared their fate in early days gained his place in the Hall of Fame. The army records of course give few details of Edgar Allan Poe but every graduate of the Military academy knows that while the poet was a cadet he wrote a short poem which is still extant, but it was not this poem which helped to win him his recognition as one of the great Americans. Poe's cadet versa-fication was repeated to the writer from memory by a West Pointer recently.

Poe's West Point Poem.

When Poe was a cadet there was an officer named Joseph Lock stationed at the military academy. Lock, it is said, went out of his way to catch the cadets off their guard, and he was constantly reporting them for breaches of discipline. It was said that the reports which this officer turned in against the cadets outnumbered the reports made by all the other officers combined. Poe, it is said, was a chief sufferer from the delinquency reports of Captain Joseph Lock. The poet's mind reverted to another Locke who had an additional letter to his name and he wrote this:

"John Locke is a great name,
Joe Lock is a greater in short;
The former is well known to fame—
The latter well known to report."

Among the other great Americans who, like Poe, were discharged from the United States Military Academy for some reason or other before the time for graduation came, was James Abbott McNeill Whistler, the great painter. Whistler has a Hall of Fame all to himself. He was a cadet at the academy from 1851 to 1854. At the school some of Whistler's drawings as a cadet have a place of honor on the walls of the drawing academy.

While at West Point Whistler struggled with studies which finally mastered him. It is an old story but it may bear retelling. Whistler was found deficient in chemistry, and some one who did not know the reason for his leaving the Military academy asked him in after years why he didn't stay in the army. Whistler said: "If sulfur had been a gas I would be a soldier."

The Isle of Pines gets its name from its forests of pine trees, said to exist there at lower altitudes than anywhere else in the tropics.

WILTED BEFORE THE THREAT

Student Saw Awful Possibility in Two Words Addressed to Him by Prefect of Study.

Fifty-five years ago a certain Indianapolis man was a student or, as he always insists, a pupil, at Notre Dame university. At that time he was only a youngster and, he admits, "cut up a little."

One fatal day, he took with him to the study hall a copy of "Billy Bow-legs," which he hid in his geography and began to read avidly. In fact, he became so interested that he failed to hear the prefect of study when the latter called on him for a recitation.
Finally the prefect called him to the desk in the front of the room. There was no opportunity to get rid of the book, so up to the desk he walked, book in hand.

The prefect unostentatiously took "Billy Bowlegs," handed over his geography and told him to return to his seat.

Several days later, when the Indianapolis man of today began to whisper and to grow fractious, the prefect said to him just two words.

"Now, Billy."

Instantly, the pupil became very quiet and always in the future was a model student, while in that class.

For he feared the prefect would disclose the dreadful truth and he would go through school, branded with the name, "Billy Bowlegs."—Indianapolis

Lisbon Notes

Band Buys Regalia

The Presbyterian band, Lisbon's leading musical organization, is completing a campaign for funds with which to buy new uniforms. The funds have passed the $300 mark. The new uniforms will be ordered within a short time so that when the band appears in the Decoration day parade they will be clad in the regulation style.

The funds have been raised by systematic work begun last fall and the members have been greatly encouraged by the support they have received from business men and private citizens generally.

Sebring Defeats Lisbon

Sebring Presbyterians defeated the Lisbon Presbyterians at basketball on Tuesday evening. Two teams of boys and girls representing the church here making the trip to the pottery village. A return game will be played here later.

Lisbon Personal Notes

Mrs. W. H. Barr, who was called to the bedside of her mother, Mrs.
Theodore Stark, North Georgetown, has notified friends here that her illness has taken a turn for the worse.

An announcement was received here of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs.
Kenneth Paisley of Youngstown. Mrs.
Paisley was formerly Miss Caroline Pitzer of Lisbon.

County Recorder Reark returned to his office yesterday after having been off duty at his home in East Liverpool, on account of illness.

Mrs. J. Billingsley is remodeling her large brick residence in East Lincoln way into a two family apartment.
She will occupy one of the apartments and lease the other.

Mrs. Robert Springer is reported to be seriously ill.
Joseph Stewart of Lisbon, who has been quite ill for some days is reported to be slowly recovering.

Committee Reports Bible Reading Bill

Columbus, March 15.—Whether the Bible must be read in the public schools will be fought out on the floor of the house of representatives, as result of the action of the house schools committee, which by a vote of 10 to six recommended the Buchanan bill for passage.

The bill requires the daily reading at the opening of school of ten verses from the Bible, without comment, and provides that teachers failing to do so shall be removed by their board of education. Action of the committee followed bitter protest from various demonstrations and was taken only after extended consideration.

Egypt Needs Foreign Capital.

The Egyptian government is preparing to offer valuable concessions to American or English capitalists who might wish to avail themselves of an abundance of raw material to establish industries in that country. It is said the government believes Egyptians incapable of developing their country industrially.

CLEVELAND—IT'S THE HOLLENDEN

Euclid Avenue

THE distance from Euclid Avenue to the Hollenden Arcade is very short.
If you arrive in Cleveland at the Euclid Avenue Station of the Pennsylvania lines, take any Euclid car going west and get off at East Sixth Street. The Hollenden is then in sight, just a few steps away.

73 SERIES BIG-SIX TOURING CAR $1750

Many people make the mistake of buying a car without enough seating capacity.

Then when they want to take their friends along, the children have to sit on someone's lap, the foot space is all jammed up with luggage, and everybody is crowded and uncomfortable.

The Studebaker Big-Six Touring Car has two comfortable auxiliary seats that fold out of the way. It is a big, roomy five-passenger car except when you need it for seven, and then it's a comfortable, convenient seven-passenger car—something which a five-passenger car can never be. And there is still room for the luggage.

Come in and look at the Big-Six Touring Car. No matter how much you pay we don't believe you can find a more satisfactory car.

Its reliability has been proved in the service of thousands of owners. Correct design, highest quality of materials and precise workmanship are evident throughout every detail of its construction.

Equipment is complete—even to an extra disc wheel with cord tire, tube and tire cover and bumpers, front and rear.

The name Studebaker is assurance of satisfaction.
